'We appeal to you as fellow these cuts are unacceptable'

PROTESTERS battling against millions of pounds worth of cuts to public services in Haringey clashed with riot police during the decisive budget meeting on Thursday.

A peaceful protest of about 200 people standing outside Haringey Civic Centre turned to violence as increasingly angry campaigners stormed the council chamber, a handful occupying the room, daubing furniture with graffiti and chanting anti-cuts slogans while refusing to leave.

A glass door leading into the chamber was smashed as police tried in vain to hold people back. Councillors retreated to the canteen to try to hold the meeting there, but protesters burst through once more. The shaken politicians were left waiting outside amid the chaos after the fire alarm went off and the building was plunged into darkness. Two people were arrested and charged with assaulting a police officer.

Defiant council leader Claire Kober refused to postpone the meeting, saying she was "livid" that violence had disrupting proceedings and insisted a small group of militant protesters from outside Haringey were to blame. She said: "I'm livid that the actions of a minority, many of whom aren't local, have damaged our building and prevented local people from being heard. It is a disgrace and an affront to democracy."

Nicolas Christian, 34, of Chester Road, Tottenham, and 39-year-old Jane Laporte, of Terront Road, Tottenham, were arrested and charged. They will appear at Highgate Magistrates' Court on March 15.

The spirited crowd, made up of local residents, council staff and other voluntary groups, chanted: "Whose town hall? Our town hall" and: "They say cut back, we say fight back!", before tensions mounted and protesters began to spill into the building. Speakers from many different groups took to the microphone, including ten-year-old Godwin Asamoah who urged decision-makers to save the Somerford Grove adventure playground in Tottenham. In a trembling voice, he said: "We need our play workers and the disabled people need their money. We need to fight back. Don't take the money away from us because we need it."

The Labour-controlled council has been charged with making £84million of savings in the next three years - £41million this year alone - following cuts imposed by central government.

Council chiefs say they now have £6.50 to spend for every £10 they used to have which has left them contemplating "invidious" cuts. The jobs of more than 1,000 council employees have been earmarked for the chop and services for young people and the elderly hit hardest. Youth services have undergone a budget cut of 75 per cent, older people's day centres and drop-in centres will be closed and adult social care will also be overhauled to save money. Walk-in customer service centres in Tottenham and Hornsey will be shut and money which was previously given to voluntary and community groups in the borough slashed to the bone. But chiefs insist tough back-office savings have also been made such as a hike in staff parking charges, a reduction in the council's oft-criticised communications budget and the restructuring of other services to claw back cash. Discussions have also begun with neighbouring Waltham Forest Council about the possibility of sharing some services to save an estimated £100,000 a year.

Dave Morris, of Haringey Alliance For Public Services, gave a deputation at the meeting, which eventually got under way in the damaged council chamber an hour-and-a-half later than scheduled – underneath a poignantly empty public gallery. Addressing councillors on behalf of the umbrella group, Mr Morris said: "We appeal to you as fellow human beings that these cuts are unacceptable. We are calling on you to make a stand and not to vote for this cuts programme but step up the pressure on the government and stick with your residents. At the moment it is a crisis at grassroot level but that would make it the government's crisis and the cuts would have no legitimacy."

Following more than two hours of political in-fighting, with both Labour and Liberal Democrat councillors angrily saying the opposition should be ashamed of itself, the council approved £84m of cuts from a total budget of £273m over the next three years.

Role model Selby Centre is at risk

A COMMUNITY hub in Tottenham hailed by a government minister as an "amazing model" of the Big Society may close due to cuts.

Cash-strapped Haringey Council chiefs have taken a decision "in principle" to terminate funding to the Selby Centre, in Selby Road, from the end of March.

It is home to more than 100 social enterprises as well as community services including a creche, education facilities and training spaces and was described by equalities minister, the Hornsey and Wood Green MP Lynne Featherstone, as an ideal model of the Big Society in action.

Sona Mahtani, Selby Trust chief executive, said the centre was about 70 per cent self-sufficient, generating income through rent. But she warned that its future now hangs in the balance because the trust also depends on the council's money to make ends meet. Ms Mahtani added: "We transformed a 1960s shell into a thriving hub that shows what a poor community can do for volunteering, self-help, jobs and social enterprise."

Shining example: David Kirkwood, Mohmud Harsi and Louis Henry-Brown record a case study for the Selby website

Selby employs about 300 and passions run high for the centre which attracts 1,500 people daily."

A council spokesman: "The financial position of the Selby Trust was reviewed by the Voluntary Sector Committee which decided in principle, following concerns about its viability, to terminate the trust's funding from 31 March, subject to a further investigation of the trust's financial position. That work by auditors is being undertaken. No final decision has been taken. The council has a duty to safeguard public funds and often has to make informed yet difficult decisions."

YOUNG people in Haringey stood proud as they spoke passionately about the impact the cuts will have on youth services in the borough.

Tottenham-born university graduate Symeon Brown, co-founder of Haringey Young People Empowered, made an impassioned deputation to gathered councillors appealing to them to not "condemn Haringey's young people to a poverty trap".

He said: "When you take away our youth services, you take away the mental and psychological support our youth workers provide. When you take away our youth services, you take away our opportunity to develop our skills in a safe place rather than on the streets where many young people have died. What is most disgusting is that your budget has been cut by 20 per cent but our budget has been cut by 75 per cent. What is left? Do our young people deserve crumbs?"

"What I find most distressing is that this is a Labour-run council. Who are you? What has happened to the belief in society mobility? The safety of our young people? We struggle and we need our politicians to understand our story. The way we have been short-changed nationally is disgusting, but locally I expected better."

"I ask you to think about all the young people and I ask you do not condemn them to a poverty trap. Youth services are a form of safeguarding the community from deprivation, from crime, from low mobility."

Symeon was just one of hundreds of young people from across Haringey who banded together to form Save Haringey's Youth Services when plans were announced to cut youth services in order to save cash. Haringey Youth Service currently runs more than 20 projects to more than 4,400 teenagers across the borough, including at 13 youth centres.

Following the devastating news that the proposed cuts had been passed, young people pledged to challenge the decision and continue their fight. Haringey teenager Funmi Abari spoke on behalf of Haringey Youth Council. The 18-year-old, who is also a London representative on UK Youth Parliament, said: "The youth council would like to make it clear that we have not been consulted. We may be vulnerable but we are not naive. We know cuts need to be found somewhere but services should be shaped by the people who know them best. If there aren't enough hats to go around, you don't just go around cutting people's heads off."

Outrage at posters suggesting royal chop

POSTERS depicting a bloodstained Prince William and his fiancée Kate Middleton have sprung up on bus shelters and payphones in Tottenham.

The posters urging people to "cut the royals, not public services" appeared near Seven Sisters Tube station last week, days before swingeing cuts were due to be debated by Haringey Council decision-makers on Thursday night.

The royal couple, due to marry at the end of April, are shown under a guillotine dripping blood over their faces. The poster was among a series of designs urging the public to fight back against the cuts.

Justin Hinchcliffe, deputy chairman of Tottenham Conservatives, described the artwork as a "clear incitement to violence". He told the Advertiser: "I saw these posters as I walked past Seven Sisters station. I couldn't believe them at first – I did a double-take, then tried to check who had published them. They look professionally printed but there was no clue on the posters themselves as to who had distributed them."

"This is just sick. Most people round here are looking forward to the royal wedding like everyone else. The posters should be urgently removed and the police should track down whoever is responsible."

"It proves how the anti-cuts lobby is being infiltrated by dangerous extremists."

The posters were slathered over billboards for British Telecom and Sky and were also critical of Prime Minister David Cameron.

Following a speech bubble coming from Mr Cameron's mouth which read: "We're all in this together", a caption read: "When I say all, I mean excluding me and the 23 millionaires in my cabinet and all our rich mates".

All change as for rubbish

RECYCLING and waste services in Haringey will be run by controversial environmental services giant Veolia from April after council bosses signed a £16.8million contract with the company.

Fortnightly collections of some types of household rubbish could become a reality from April next year and new 240-litre wheelie bins for "dry" recycling waste will also be rolled out across the borough.

Street cleaning, gritting and the removal of graffiti will also be carried out by the company from April 17 after council decision-makers voted in December last year to dump current provider Enterprise.

The 14-year contract will boost Haringey's "greenest borough" ambitions and save the authority £2million per year, according to Nilgun Canver, cabinet member for neighbourhoods, who was at pains to point out that 75 per cent of household waste would still be collected weekly.

Eight "village depots", organised on the same geographical lines as area assemblies, will be established to carry out street cleansing with each village team doing an average of two sweeps a week for every street in its area.

And Veolia chiefs pledge to get residents recycling more than 40 per cent by 2015, slashing carbon emissions by 12,000 tons in the process. Ms Canver said: "All recycling will be easier with the new larger wheelie bins replacing the small green boxes, meaning the recycling waste can now be contained and won't spill into gardens. In the end, this contract is a fantastic deal for council taxpayers, a boost for the environment and a trailblazer helping us meet our carbon-cutting promises."

But in Tower Hamlets, councillors have voted to review Veolia's 11-year contract early after claiming the company is "directly implicated" in maintaining controversial Israeli settlements in occupied Palestinian territory.

Closures top 200 as police home in on crack houses

POLICE have reached a milestone in targeting the crack houses which blight communities across Haringey with drug use, violence and prostitution.

Officers closed down their 200th crack house last week when they raided a flat in Waverley Road, Tottenham, where residents had been forced to live out their daily lives alongside drug-taking, prostitution and noise throughout the day and night.

Complaints had been made about regular fighting in the flat, with one resident describing regularly hearing shouting, screaming and furniture being thrown, and another saying he feared for his safety in his own home.

Anonymous statements made by desperate residents helped officers from Haringey police crime squad obtain a closure order from Highgate Magistrates' Court on February 22 and finally put an end to their misery. The court was also shown photographs showing crack pipes found at the flat when police visited earlier last month. It will now be closed for at least three months with not even the tenant allowed inside.

Police in Haringey began to carry out the closure orders in 2004 using legislation under the 2003 Anti-Social Behaviour Act.

Detective Chief Inspector Gurdip Singh said: "My officers continue to collate information from the community to identify premises connected with the supply and misuse of illegal drugs. No one should have to put up with drug-related crime and disorder in their neighbourhood and I urge anyone with information to speak with their local Safer Neighbourhood team."

Targeting drug dens: DCI Gurdip Singh

Police say they refer anyone found within a crack house to support agencies for drug and alcohol dependency and to temporary accommodation in a bid to ensure drug users do not simply transfer their problems to another property.

O'HARA EXPECTS TO LEAVE SPURS

By Dominique Stafford

JAMIE O'HARA has admitted that he expects to leave Tottenham Hotspur at the end of the current season.

The 24-year-old midfielder moved to Wolves on loan for the remainder of the campaign in January after struggling to break into the Spurs side on a regular basis.

And O'Hara, who also enjoyed a successful loan spell at Portsmouth last season, accepts that his long-term future is likely to lie away from White Hart Lane.

"I can't see myself playing for Spurs at the moment," said O'Hara, who scored for Wolves in their win over Blackpool on Saturday. "They've got a good squad and the manager has never really given me an opportunity to play a run of games."

"I think it's time for me to look elsewhere and move on in my career. I want to go somewhere where I'm going to play every week, I want to be settled for a good three or four years."

Wolves boss Mick McCarthy has expressed his desire to extend O'Hara's stay at the club beyond the end of this season, saying: "He's a chirpy character to have around the place as well as being a very good player."

Meanwhile, David Beckham has thanked Tottenham for allowing him to train with them for the past six weeks.

The former England captain had been hoping to play for the club on a short-term loan deal ahead of the new Major League Soccer season, but talks between Spurs and Los Angeles Galaxy broke down, leaving Beckham to just train with the squad prior to his return to America late last week.

"I am grateful to Spurs and Harry Redknapp for how they looked after me," he said. "My only objective was to get fit for the MLS season."

"If there was an opportunity to play then I would have taken it, but without a doubt I wanted to go somewhere and train, and not take three months off and sit around doing nothing."

"At this stage of my career, and with the injury I'd had, I felt it was more important for me to train."

Set to leave: Jamie O'Hara is likely to quit White Hart Lane in the summer

Skolars' trip to south of France ends with a loss

THE London Skolars gave a good account of themselves in the south of France on Saturday before eventually having to settle for a bonus point as they were beaten 34-22 at Toulouse Olympique in their final match in rugby league's Northern Rail Cup.

Ade Adebisi scored two tries for the Skolars, with Matt Thomas and Dave Arnot also crossing the line and Neil Thorman adding three goals to raise hopes of an upset win, but the French hosts – who play a division above the Skolars in the Conference – made sure of their victory with a late converted try.

Meanwhile, Skolars' director of rugby Mark Croston has hailed skipper Thorman after he was rewarded for his efforts in their impressive 16-16 draw against York City Knights the previous week by being named the Northern Rail Cup player of the round.

Croston said: "Neil is one of those rare players who can play in almost every position and be as good as anyone. His skills and his leadership ability mark him out as one of the best players in the league."

"There is no one more focused than him when it comes to game day and he showed that against York. He led from the front and his ability to move the ball quickly to keep York on the back foot was vital for us on the day."

The London Skolars host Egremond Rangers in the Carnegie Challenge Cup on Saturday (3.30pm).
